"The streets are our stage!"
A dance festivity drawing attention from the world.

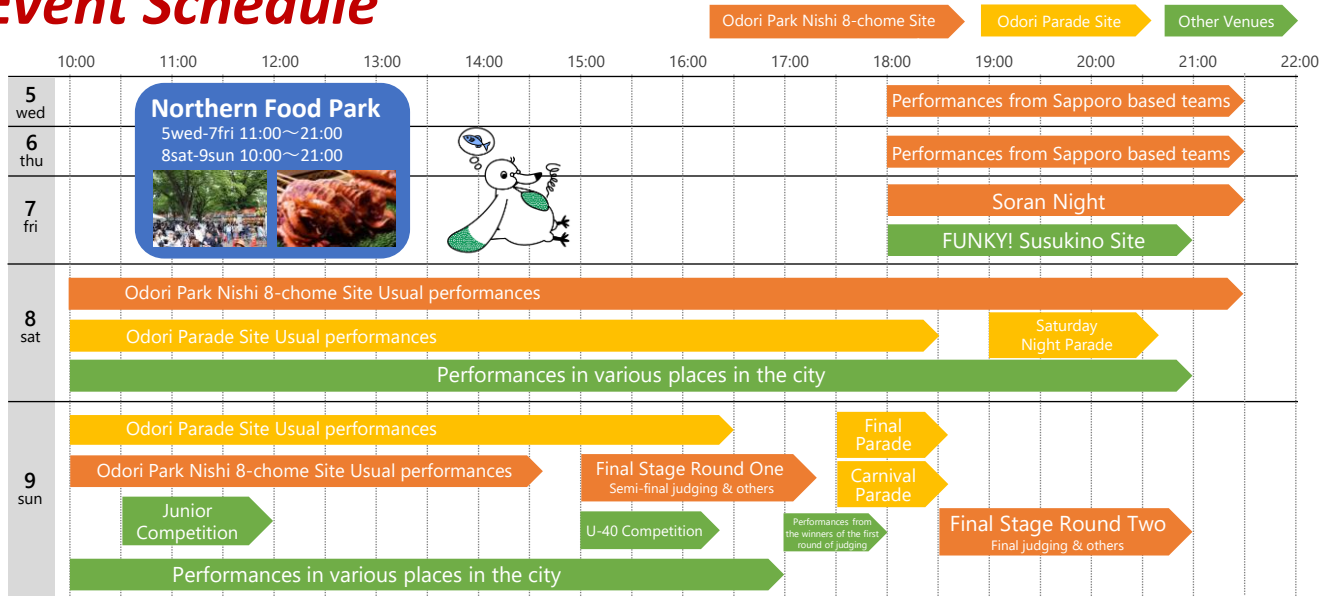

The Yosakoi Soran Festival was born when a group of youths declared that "The streets are our stage!" after witnessing the magic and passion of the historical Yosakoi Festival in Kochi. Now the festival proudly hosts roughly 30,000 dancers and two million visitors. The festival has gained recognition both within and beyond Hokkaido and even overseas, earning it the honour of being the event marking the start of summer.

Only two rules!

- To have naruko (wooden hand clappers) in their hands as they dance and;
- To incorporate the phrase from the Soran Bushi in their song
